ZOO'S GUIDE TO ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW, WATCH, BUY & LAUGH ABOUT THIS WEEK!

Meck-nificent!

Lucy Mecklenburgh's finally ditched the sports gear... and a lot more, too!

Earlier this year it was estimated former TOWIE hottie Lucy Mecklenburgh was worth around £2.5 million.

But based on these shots of the foxy fitness fanatic donning her bikini in Dubai, we'd say she's utterly priceless.

The lovely Lucy, who ditched the reality show two years ago, now makes her millions from fitness DVDs and working with clothing brands like PrettyLittleThing, for whom she is currently catching the eye in a series of saucy TV adverts.

At ZOO, we're far more interested in seeing the Essex hotty removing her clothes than showcasing her latest Autumn/Winter collection.

But what's next for the luscious Lucy? Who knows – but as long as it involves fewer clothes, more bikinis and Dubai beaches, we'll certainly be happy!

CALL OF DUTY
BLACK OPS III

Take your Call of Duty skills to the next level and follow these 10 tips from a man who makes more playing CoD (in a day) than you do a year!

ZOO's expert!

Call of Duty: Black Ops III is out now, but you don't want to be merely trundling through the game, do you? Take it from us, you want to be the big dog. However you're not going to get there just button bashing.

Instead, take note of these tips from professional thumb-twiddler Swanny, one-time member of elite E-Sports team Epsilon, who could earn up to £25,000-a-day playing CoD.

It's not all work, work, work...

STAY AIRBORNE!

"CoD veterans will find the new movement system takes getting used to. Wall running will be your new best friend, and makes you a much more difficult target. Master that first and you'll save your skin."

GO FOR A SWIM!

"Swimming is new and it comes in handy for evading the enemy and giving you the occasional breather. Plus, players won't be expecting you to pop out of the water with a barrel in their face."

PICKING YOUR SPECIALIST!

"I opt for the 'Prophet'. He's got an electric rifle which is not only a one-shot kill, but also transfers electrical energy to nearby enemies. You basically rack up multiple kills with a single shot."

BE A TEAM PLAYER!

"People forget it's not just about racking up as many kills as possible; it's about your score. You have to make sure you play for the objective. Ultimately, playing with your team will reward you as an individual."

GET VERTICAL!

"As pros, we're always looking to get that verticality and height into our offensive game because it's imperative in giving us the drop on unsuspecting players who are only looking forward."

PICK THE RIGHT PERKS!

"Always go for 'Fast Hands'. It means you can raise your guns faster when you sprint and throw tactical grenades quicker. A lot of the time, it's the difference between killing or being killed."

EMBRACE YOUR INNER RAMBO!

"You can now completely remove all your perks and have six attachments on your gun, which means you're basically walking around like Rambo – killing everything. Although it does leave you a little open defensively, it's great fun!"

FLANKING THE OPPOSITION

"New map 'Combine' will probably be used in competitive E-Sports. There's a wall running spot that bypasses the bloodbath in the middle so you can flank the opposition. Once you're in behind, you'll rack up plenty of kills."

GET A DECENT HEADSET!

"The 'Awareness' perk makes hearing enemy movements a bit easier, but a good pair of cans will go a long way towards staying alive."

GOING PRO?

"Activision is starting its own pro league in January, but there's a big difference between sitting in your bedroom and playing on a stage. It's like any sporting event: stay focused and embrace the pressure."

→ Call of Duty: Black Ops III is out now

OOH, MATRON! CARRY ON IS BACK!

Stop
mucking abahht

ZOO is delighted to hear Carry On movies are making a comeback in 2017, with a long-awaited reboot. The classic big screen British comedy franchise – starring Barbara Windsor, as well as a host of much-missed comedians like Sid James and Kenneth Williams – will need bringing into the 21st Century, so ZOO has some handy ideas for some new additions to the much-loved movie institution...

Carry On Chelsea

PLOT A lovable London football club suffers a series of hilarious set-backs, as their Mr Bean-esque manager lurches from mishap to mishap.

CAST Rowan Atkinson as Jose Mourinho, Dave Bautista as Diego Costa

Carry On Camping 2: Glastonbury

PLOT Posh people flock to a field in Somerset, walking around in designer wellies and trying to avoid catching the Paloma Faith set.

CAST Barbara Windsor (bra on) as Jo Whiley, Kanye West as himself

Carry On Prime Minister

PLOT Embarrassed that he allegedly had "relations" with a pig, the PM decides to get his own back by snooping into every bloke's internet history...

CAST: Matt Lucas as David Cameron, David Walliams as Jeremy Corbyn

Carry On Up The Jungle 2

PLOT Stranded in the Aussie outback, a cheeky Geordie duo try to sneak a peek at some babes taking a shower. Meanwhile, some bloke eats kangaroo balls.

CAST Tom Hardy as Ant and Dec, Kim Kardashian as Mylenne Klass

Carry On Z Factor

PLOT Reality TV karaoke farce sees people off the street murder popular songs – while a midget in armpit-high trousers tells everyone, "He doesn't like it... he loves it!"

CAST Actually this one's already being made. Strike it off the list.

Jumbo vs jet(man)

Some people race cars. These guys race airliners. Beat that, Lewis Hamilton...

Part-time commercial pilot Yves Rossy isn't your average adrenaline junkie. In his spare time, he doesn't go zorbing or bungee jumping. Oh no. Instead, he straps a carbon fibre jet-powered contraption to his back and zooms across the skies like Buzz Lightyear – at 300kmph.

You might remember him as the Swiss chap who once raced Richard Hammond in a rally-spec Skoda on Top Gear a few years back, but that's immaterial. Because as if it couldn't sound any more bonkers, his latest stunt – together with protégé Vince Reffet – involved racing a 350-tonne Emirates A380 superjumbo 5,000ft above Dubai.

To mitigate the risk, the duo's formation positions were carefully selected to avoid the four engines – which each produce 70,000lb of thrust – and after the barmy stunt, Rossy gave a very eloquent description of what it's like racing the biggest aircraft in the world: "This was absolutely surreal. When I was flying, it made me feel like a mosquito beside a gigantic eagle."

Somehow we don't think this is exactly what Elton John had in mind when he wrote Rocket Man...

JEAN-CLAUDE VAN DAMME EXCLUSIVE!

“Stallone was the toughest – he likes to REALLY hit!”

The legendary Belgian martial arts movie star talks to ZOO about saving the world, taking on comedy films and why Jason Statham is no JCVD...

HI, JCVD. YOU'RE DOING "AN EXPERIENCE

WITH JEAN-CLAUDE VAN DAMME" AT OLD TRAFFORD ON 21 NOVEMBER. ARE YOU A MAN UNITED FAN?

Yeah, I like the Red Devils! Manchester United are an amazing team, they are doing well and may win the European Cup. I came to Manchester a few years ago and took my daughter to meet Cristiano Ronaldo. She's a big football fan. He gave her a No7 shirt, so I am her hero for arranging it!

"MAN UNITED ARE AMAZING!"

WHAT CAN PEOPLE EXPECT FROM YOUR NEW SHOW?

A great time! I am going to talk about life, my experiences, my career, my hopes and dreams. It's great to be able to meet the fans – I have great loyal fans after 56 movies. The UK fans are great because I'm Belgian and their neighbour. The US fans are a bit drier.

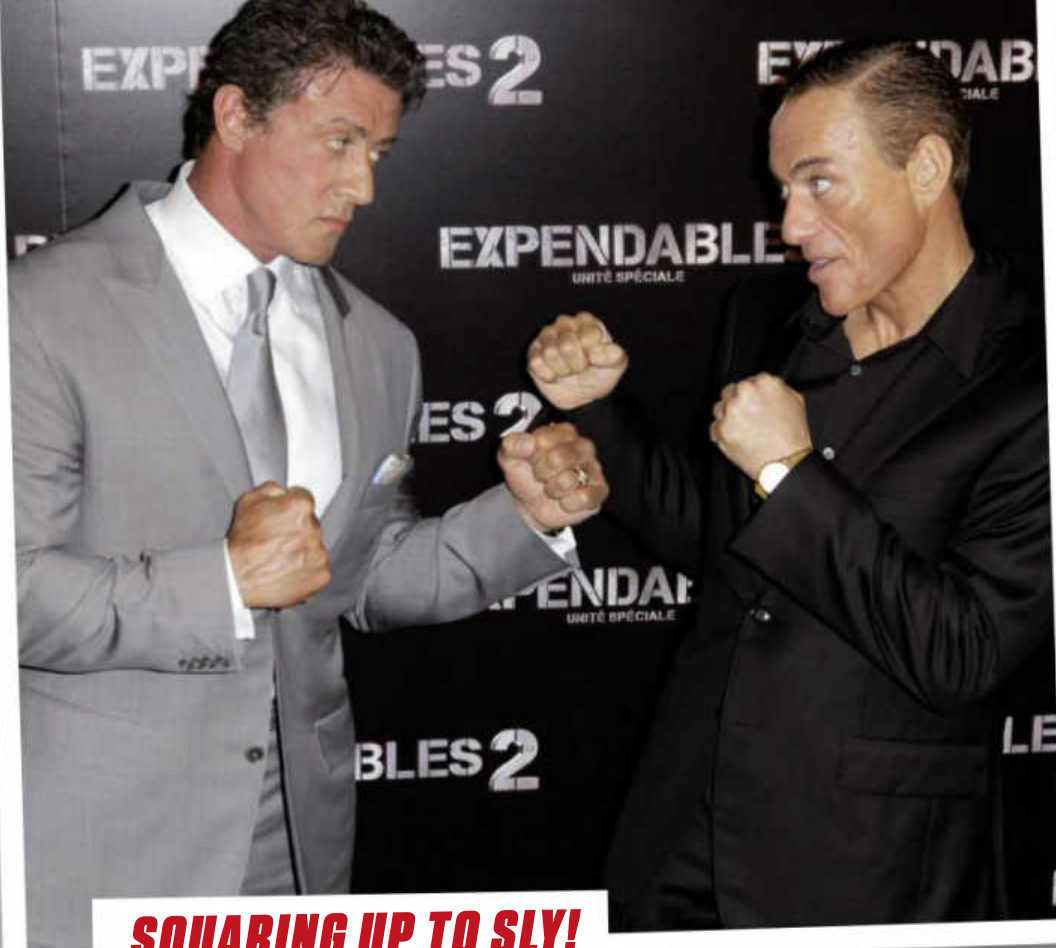

IS THERE A WORTHY SUCCESSOR OUT THERE TO YOUR "HARDEST MAN IN HOLLYWOOD" MANTLE?

I think every few years someone new comes along. Bruce Lee was there for a time, then Chuck Norris and then I came along. Like them, I was unique. I was a revolution in terms of, "Who is that guy jumping so high without a cable or doing the splits in the air?" So I don't think you will find someone like me again or like Bruce Lee either.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF TODAY'S HARD MEN LIKE JASON STATHAM?

He's a good actor with his own style but what I created in the world of martial arts is something amazing. I created that USP – like fighting in the cage in Bloodsport.

HOLLYWOOD ACTION STARS OF THE '80S AND '90S WERE NOTORIOUSLY

SQUARING UP TO SLY!

TOUGH. WHO WAS THE MOST COMPETITIVE OF THEM ALL?

Sly Stallone! He likes to really hit! We are all competitive, though. Those bulging muscles are for real because we all train hard and want to look great. AT 55, ARE YOUR ACTION MOVIE DAYS NUMBERED? I've had a nice career doing those. Now I am getting offers on a much higher level than my first movies. It's like a second cycle and I'm hoping it will be as successful. I'm very down to earth, so if it happens it will be a big surprise to me! I like to do comedy.

SO, SHALL WE GET READY FOR JCVD:

THE STAND-UP TOUR?

Yes, why not? It's the best because there is no ego. In action movies everyone wants to look better than each other because it's action, testosterone. But with comedy, the more goofy and stupid you are, the more you're winning.

DOUBLE IMPACT FEATURED DOUBLE VAN DAMME. WOULD THE WORLD BE A SAFER PLACE WITH TWO VAN DAMMES?

Only in as much as I really care about the planet and its future. I care about the ecology, the earth, plants, animals. We need the world leaders to gather together and concentrate on saving the planet.

IN A FIGHT BETWEEN WHAT CAN ONLY BE DESCRIBED AS THE TWO GREATEST BELGIANS OF ALL TIME, WHO'D WIN: YOU OR TINTIN?

Me, because I have 25 years of training in martial arts! WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE NEW INCLUSIONS FOR THE EXPENDABLES 4? IS HULK HOGAN REALLY TOUGH ENOUGH?

Yeah, he's a tough guy alright. He's a bit older, but he's still got it. He comes from a different background to me though. He is all wrestling, which is a very different thing indeed.

ZOO'S PRETTY MUCH OUT OF SHAPE – HOW DO WE LEARN TO DO AN EPIC SPLIT OR PERFECT HIGH KICK, VAN DAMME-STYLE?

You have to practice and be disciplined. I train every day and have done all my life. I've done ballet, martial arts, yoga, everything. You have to focus. Everyone can go to the gym, everyone can lose weight. You have to want to. Watch what you eat and maybe don't drink. I don't drink anymore, it's all just sugar and makes you be stupid.

HMMM, MAYBE NOT. SO WHAT DO YOU MISS MORE: COORS LIGHT OR A BELGIAN LEFFE?

What? They are both good, like

WIN! VIP TICKETS TO MEET JCVD!

Here's to our heroes!

Join ZOO and help us support the greatest people we know – our Armed Forces!

The Armed Forces have always supported ZOO (as seen in these hilarious pics our boys have sent over the years), and now we want to return the favour.

That's why, ahead of Remembrance Day on 11 November, we want to encourage you to continue supporting our friends at The Royal British Legion.

This selfless organisation helps thousands of post-service men and women, and your donations support injured heroes at facilities like the Battle Back Centre in Lilleshall, which provides help and motivation to aid recovery.

Without public generosity, none of this would be possible. So as well as wearing your poppy with pride, please dig deep and donate to ensure our Armed Forces live on.

This November, ZOO is joining millions of people supporting The Royal British Legion's Poppy Appeal.

Spike the dog!

Canadian pooch loses fight against angry porcupine with a point to prove...

Don't hound me - I'm a prickly customer

Get FACT

A porcupine has as many as 30,000 quills
on its body

Just because you're bigger than something, it doesn't always mean you can take it on in a fight. Proving this point very eloquently is Nestah, the dog you see here, who thought he could deal with an enraged porcupine in Saskatchewan, Canada. Unfortunately he, alongside fellow hounds Mahalo and Soljah (right), came off second best and were covered in barbs from the brawl, leaving them in desperate need of surgery.

Thankfully, the pups have now made a full recovery after life-saving procedures paid for by more than $15,000 (and rising) worth of donations from dog lovers around the world.

Hopefully this will teach them to never take on a little prick like this ever again...

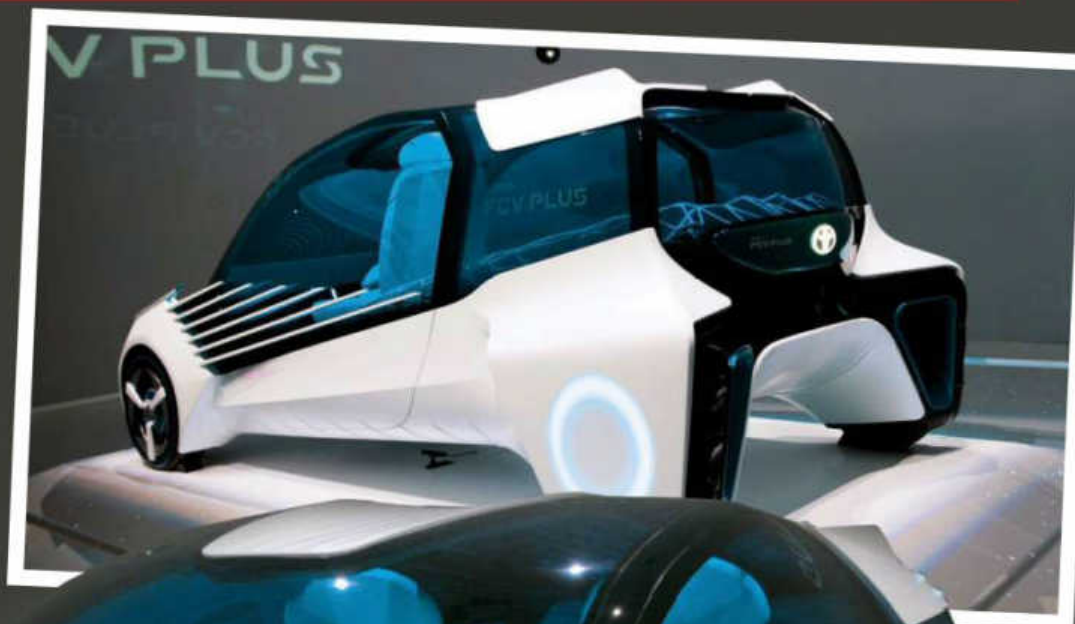

TOKYO MOTOR
SHOW 2015!

Mad in Japan

ZOO reveals the pick of the insane concept cars from the Tokyo Motor Show...

Toyota FCV Plus

You're going to hear a lot about Fuel Cell Vehicles in the coming years, and this concept, which generates electricity to feed its on-board batteries from hydrogen, provides an insight into what we can expect. Better still, the FCV Plus can plug in to surrounding infrastructure and use any excess electricity to power homes, schools and even office buildings.

Suzuki Mighty Deck

No, that's not a spelling mistake and no, it has nothing to do with the Mighty Ducks. In fact, the Mighty Deck is a typical Japanese Kei car ("light automobile") – a vehicle designed to be tiny in order to tackle busy cities. This miniature hero only develops 63bhp to adhere to the strict Kei criteria, but the cool convertible roof means you can enjoy the surroundings as you bumble past at 20mph.

Nissan IDS

Self-driving cars don't have to be boring, as Nissan proved with its madcap IDS. The concept imitates the driver's style when they hand over duties to the computer, so if you drive like a granny, the fully autonomous mode will take every speed bump at 2mph and stop for regular toilet breaks. But if you like to take corners like Lewis Hamilton, hold tight...

Yamaha MWT-9

The chaps at Yamaha must have been popping the crazy pills of late, because they turned up with some seriously insane concepts. The MWT-9 looks like a standard bike, but features two wheels at the front for exceptional cornering. Underneath the angular bodywork lies a pretty standard triple-cylinder 849cc engine, but there's nothing normal about the rest of it. Don't hold your breath for a production version.

Subaru Viziv

Autonomous driving tech won't simply be reserved for those who can afford a luxury German saloon: Subaru revealed that its chunky Viziv concept would use radar sensors and GPS mapping to find its way around. Powered by a 1.6-litre engine and an electric motor, it's also much kinder to the environment. Oh, and it looks pretty badass, too.

Toyota Kikai

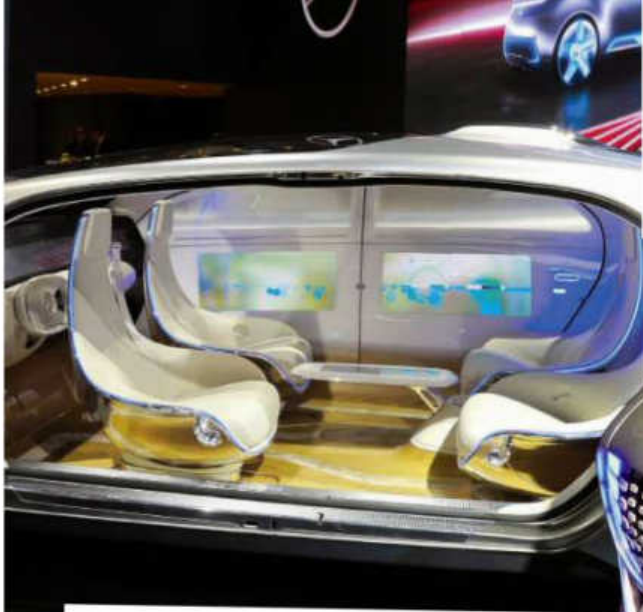

While other manufacturers were showing off their latest technology, Toyota was making a statement with its inside-out concept. The Kikai has all of its internal organs on the outside for the world to see. To get all deep, it could be Toyota's way of reminding us vehicles still need unattractive oily bits to function properly. Forget your sterile, lounge-like environments: the Kikai serves as a functional tool to ferry people from A to B.

Suzuki Air Triser

Suzuki definitely turned up the crazy a few notches this year, although its Air Triser compact MPV concept is strangely alluring. Its stubby exterior has hints of the original VW microbus, while the stylish interior can be configured into various arrangements, including a cool lounge style. If you're looking for a surf wagon replacement, this futuristic number could be just the ticket, dude.

Mercedes-Benz Vision Tokyo

In the future, we'll be travelling around in self-driving people carriers, while happily messing around with a holographic infotainment system. Well, that's what the madmen at Mercedes believe if the Vision Tokyo concept is anything to go by. It's powered by a hydrogen fuel cell and electric hybrid system that's claimed to be good for 609 miles. All the while, occupants are encouraged to wear Lycra jumpsuits, relax in a lounge-like setting and sport enormous space-age quiffs (above).

Yamaha Sports Ride

The world famous motorcycle manufacturer looks set to muscle in on the sports car market with its eye-popping concept. Details are scarce, but it is likely to feature the 1,000cc engine from the marque's superbike range and boast around 100bhp. Gordon Murray, the lightweight engineering genius behind the original McLaren F1, is said to be involved. Expect a lithe, speedy little machine.

Lexus LF-FC

This year's Tokyo show revealed two things: hydrogen fuel cell power is going to be massive, and future cars will feature lines so sharp, they could slice through a bullet-proof vest. The LF-FC embodies both points, with some exquisite styling and an eco-friendly hydrogen fuel cell powertrain that will likely feature in upcoming Lexus saloons. Expect powerful performance without wallet-busting fuel bills.

FILM
of the week!

Steve Jobs

The behind-the-scenes build-up to an Apple launch may not seem the most exciting setting for a film, but director Danny Boyle pulls it off in this fascinating biopic, which delves inside the genius who gave us gizmos we take for granted.

Taking in three key moments in Jobs' tech career – the launch of the Macintosh, the ill-fated NeXT and the triumphant unveiling of the iMac – Jobs' relationships are explored via a chameleon-like turn from Michael Fassbender, who puts in a powerhouse performance as the coolest fella in a black turtle neck since the Milk Tray man.

Apple fanboys will find enough titbits to tear them away from their Force Touch screens, while a rose gold iPhone 6S Plus should sway the Academy's voters. ★★★★★

NOVEMBER

GAMING TAKEOVER!

GAME
of the week!

Fallout 4

If you were going to be super-picky, you could say Bethesda's most recent Fallout release is in essence the exact same post-apocalyptic experience as New Vegas, released five years ago.

Then again, that same game was near enough perfect and this latest adventure builds upon that foundation with even more features and finesse than ever before. As well as building your own towns in the wasteland, there's even a giant Pip-Boy for sale which you can use as a second screen.

Couple that with a world that's exponentially bigger and even more stunning to look at, and it's practically impossible to be disappointed with the results. ★★★★★

Call of Duty: Black Ops III

In a surprising turn of events, the most exciting change to this year's CoD comes not from the universally popular multiplayer, but from the game's campaign.

It's been built "from the ground up" – yes, that phrase again – for co-operative gameplay, meaning you and up to four players can jump in and play any mission together. On the other hand, multiplayer offers a very familiar experience, albeit with a few interesting tweaks. For one, a Titanfall-esque ability to traverse maps, and also new "specialists" who come with their own unique power-ups and abilities.

Both admittedly interesting new elements, but not breaking new ground for the still enjoyable series. ★★★★★

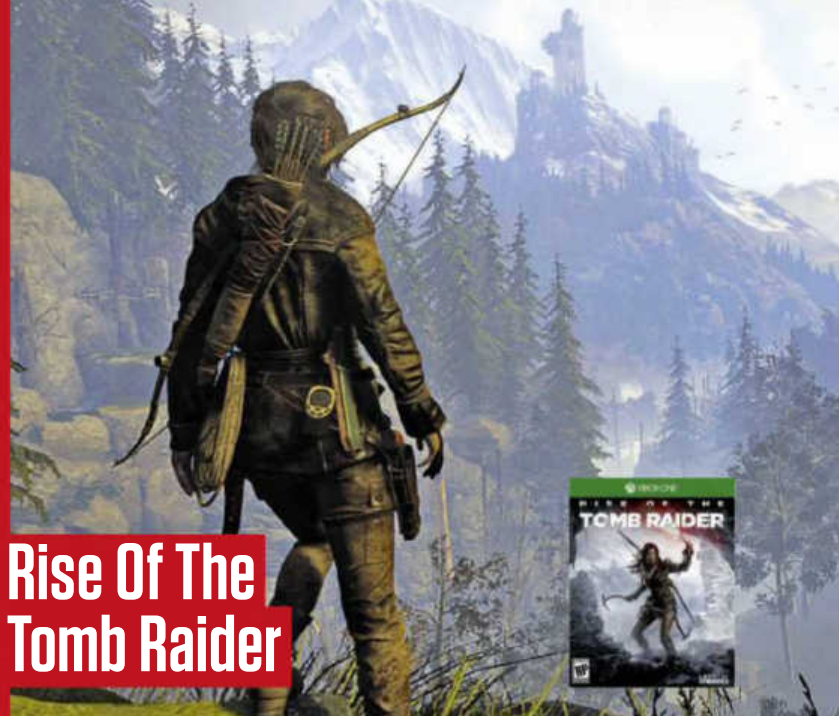

WWE 2K16

After recent frustrations, WWE 2K16 marks an excellent return to form for the franchise.

From start to finish, the game feels entirely authentic, with spot-on entrances for all 120-plus wrestlers on the huge roster, plus virtually every type of match you could think of and the opportunity to relive the career of legendary cover star, Stone Cold Steve Austin.

The controls do take some getting used to (unless you're happy button-bashing away), but a new reversal system helps bring a more realistic fighting experience.

But, whether you're an avid viewer of RAW, or haven't dipped your toe into wrestling since the glory days of The Rock and co, WWE 2K16 is well worth your time. ★★★★★

Rise Of The Tomb Raider

If the 2013 Tomb Raider reboot breathed new life into the console staple, then this sequel is sure to put Lara Croft firmly back on the map.

Key to this is taking the game back to its roots, with spike traps aplenty, underwater puzzles to solve and numerous relics to unearth. Crafting also adds an intriguing new feature to the game: need to heal? You'll want to gather supplies for medicine. Grizzly running at you? Some harvested poison mushrooms will help take the beast down.

Annoyingly, stealth can be a bit of a let down, especially when compared to this year's Metal Gear Solid. But, make no mistake, this is a blip in an otherwise brilliant adventure. ★★★★★

Need For Speed

A conundrum, wrapped within an enigma, and thrown blindfolded into the back of a bright orange mustang: that's the new Need For Speed.

Everything's in place for a tremendous game, but like a tricked-out Vauxhall Nova, something's not quite right. There's no question it looks the business and handles the five racing styles (from drifting to outlaw challenges) reasonably well. However, there's more activity on a Saturday night in Torquay than in the giant cities you race around.

Worse still, the cars feel sluggish, or certainly pedestrian, in comparison to the likes of Forza. And for a game that's habitually all been about speed, that's a pretty big disappointment. ★★★★★

"I'M LIKE A CARTOON PORN STAR!"

The curvy wonder has a brand new shoot – and it's only in this magazine!

With her incredible natural looks and gravity-defying curves, we've always thought Kelly Brook is the closest thing the human race has to a real-life Jessica Rabbit. It's no wonder the sensational Kent cutie remains Britain's favourite pin-up.

She may be out conquering Hollywood, but she found time to talk exclusively to ZOO about being a "unicorn", why Americans think she's a freak and, of course, her red hot 2016 calendar... ➔

ONLY IN ZOO!

“I always go for sexy - just not sexy”

HI, KELLY! WELCOME TO ZOO. WHAT'S BEEN HAPPENING IN KELLY BROOK WORLD?

Thanks! I've just finished filming Taking Stock, a comedy crime film where I play a bank robber. She's a real badass and becomes obsessed with the story of Bonnie and Clyde. She's been let down by men, work and society, so turns to crime because it's her only way to survive.

CRIKEY! YOU'RE QUITE THE SCREEN STAR THESE DAYS, AREN'T YOU?

Yeah! I've been filming One Big Happy, a US sitcom. My curves gave the writers a whole load of leverage! If you resemble a cartoon porn star – like I do – but have a playful personality, I can only imagine it's fun for them to write. They called me a "unicorn". I'm not sure if that's a good thing. I'm guessing it means they think I'm a freak!

DO YOU THINK YOU'RE A UNICORN?

I'd actually prefer to be a lizard. My house is always so warm and I hate the cold, so if I could live in Palm Springs as a lizard, I'd be more than happy.

HOW WOULD A GUY GO ABOUT KEEPING YOU HAPPY?

I like my men to be committed, loyal, interesting and to contribute, so just the basic principles. Oh, and they should have a Bentley and a six-pack, too. Ha, just kidding. Actually I'm not.

IF WE SEE YOU OUT ON THE TOWN, WHAT SHOULD WE DO?

I've got my bar – Steam & Rye – in London. I'd love it if you buy me a drink – preferably a Hendrick's gin & tonic, or perhaps an Aperol Spritz?

I've also recently been introduced to a twinkle: vodka, Champagne and elderflower juice. That was delicious!

WE'LL WRITE THAT DOWN. OK, WE HEARD YOU'RE HAPPIEST WHILE ON YOUTUBE...

You're not wrong! I'm in love ➔ with Amy Schumer at the moment. She's not that well known here in the UK at the moment. I also love watching ball-scratching female stand-ups, like Rebecca Corry and Whitney Cummings. They're fearless and so hilarious. I catch up with them all on YouTube.

TALKING OF THE INTERNET, DID YOU KNOW "KELLY BROOK" IS THE MOST DANGEROUS CELEBRITY NAME TO SEARCH FOR ON GOOGLE?

Worth the risk though, eh? Ha, ha, ha!

YOU LOOK INCREDIBLE, BY THE WAY. WHAT'S YOUR SECRET?

Thanks. I've been following the Atkins Nutritional Approach since last January. It's low carb, low sugar and more of a lifestyle than a diet. I also do plenty of running and pilates. I can honestly say I've never felt better about my body – I feel healthier and I still have my curves!

YOUR 2016 CALENDAR LOOKS LIKE YOUR HOTTEST YET...

This is my 15th year of publishing calendars. I always go for sexy, but not overtly sexy. I keep in mind that girls buy it for their dads, grandads, brothers and boyfriends, so it can't be too gross. You don't want to give the family a shock on Christmas Day when it's being opened. I make sure it's a family-friendly gift, just verging on the edge of happiness!

WHAT DOES YOUR GOOD MATE KEITH LEMON THINK OF THE PICTURES?

It's funny because now he's my biggest competition, as he has his own calendar, too. He even asked me for some tips! I just told him, "Being sexy is looking like you're blowing bubbles and have a mild case of conjunctivitis." Pout and squint, you see?

UNCOVERING THE YAKUZA'S HIDDEN CODE

ZOO meets the photographer who infiltrated the dark world of Japan's notorious crime families...

The Yakuza: Japan's centuries-old crime syndicate – a group of criminal families whose drug trafficking, ownership of red light districts and running of protection rackets is deeply rooted in their country's traditions. But much of their activity is in complete secrecy as the organisation fights to keep its way of life out of sight – and mind – from the world.

However, photographer Anton Kusters successfully gained the trust of the elders of a group that boasts more than 100,000 members – and is now telling his story to ZOO.

The Belgian spends his time between his homeland and Tokyo, and one day encountered a high-ranking member of the Yakuza, who he asked to photograph. After much negotiation, Kusters became the first Westerner to be allowed access into the Japanese crime families' inner sanctum. Here, he reveals their hidden codes and practices...

The first encounter

"The first time I encountered the Yakuza was on the streets of Kabukicho, Tokyo. Until then, I had the same idea of them as everyone else: crazy, tattooed gangsters running around with swords. I spoke to a member named Souichirou, an upper-level street boss. After 10 months of negotiation, I finally got to photograph his Yakuza family in spring 2009. It was on a five-hour drive to a prison in Niigata, from where two members were due to be released that day. The whole family drove out to meet them, while I rode along with Nitto-san, a senior boss of the family. His handshake was firm, his gaze penetrating. Souichirou instructed me how to greet him with a bow. From then, I took in as much as I could as members taught me the Yakuza ways."

RESPECTED HIERARCHY!

The structure

"Yakuza is a general term for crime families across Japan. The families are run like a business. There's a strict hierarchy of 'father and son' from top to bottom, set in stone and respected by everybody. At the top is Socho – which translates to 'number one' – and this person is basically the godfather. Then you have Kaicho, who is the number two. Comparing this to a company, Socho would be the head of the board and Kaicho would be the CEO. In terms of respect, each member is expected to give everything to their elders."

Public perception

"Japanese people definitely do not see the Yakuza as a positive, but there are some people who sympathise with them because times were seen as better and safer when they had more power. Others see them as a necessary evil, as throughout the centuries they've had a complicated relationship with society and law enforcement, which still leaves its mark to this day. The elders truly believe they are the keepers of real Japanese values. They don't search or push for positive press, they'd rather no attention at all. Generally speaking, they only care about what is said about them in Japan, and excel at walking the fine line between good and bad."

Missing digits

"Yubitsume is a tradition used by the Yakuza and involves being punished via removal of a piece of finger. The key is, the person being punished does this to him or herself, and presents it to whom they are apologising. Although it doesn't happen lightly, it can occur because of reasons that might seem insignificant to a non-Japanese person. Usually a grave error of allegiance or social mistake would warrant the chop. In the family I was with, it tended to happen once every couple of years. I missed the first, and it didn't happen again while I was with them."

COMBAT TRAINING!

Body art

"Although once crucial, nowadays fewer members get tattooed because of the stigma that exists in Japan – a stigma that came to life because of Yakuza links. These very visual aspects of the culture are becoming less important, but in the past Yakuza members – who would meet in bathhouses – could assess one another from their tattoos, as each one depicted an ancient scene or family story. It's not the case that every member of the same family has the same tattoo or artist. Each is like a personal resumé."

Mortal combat

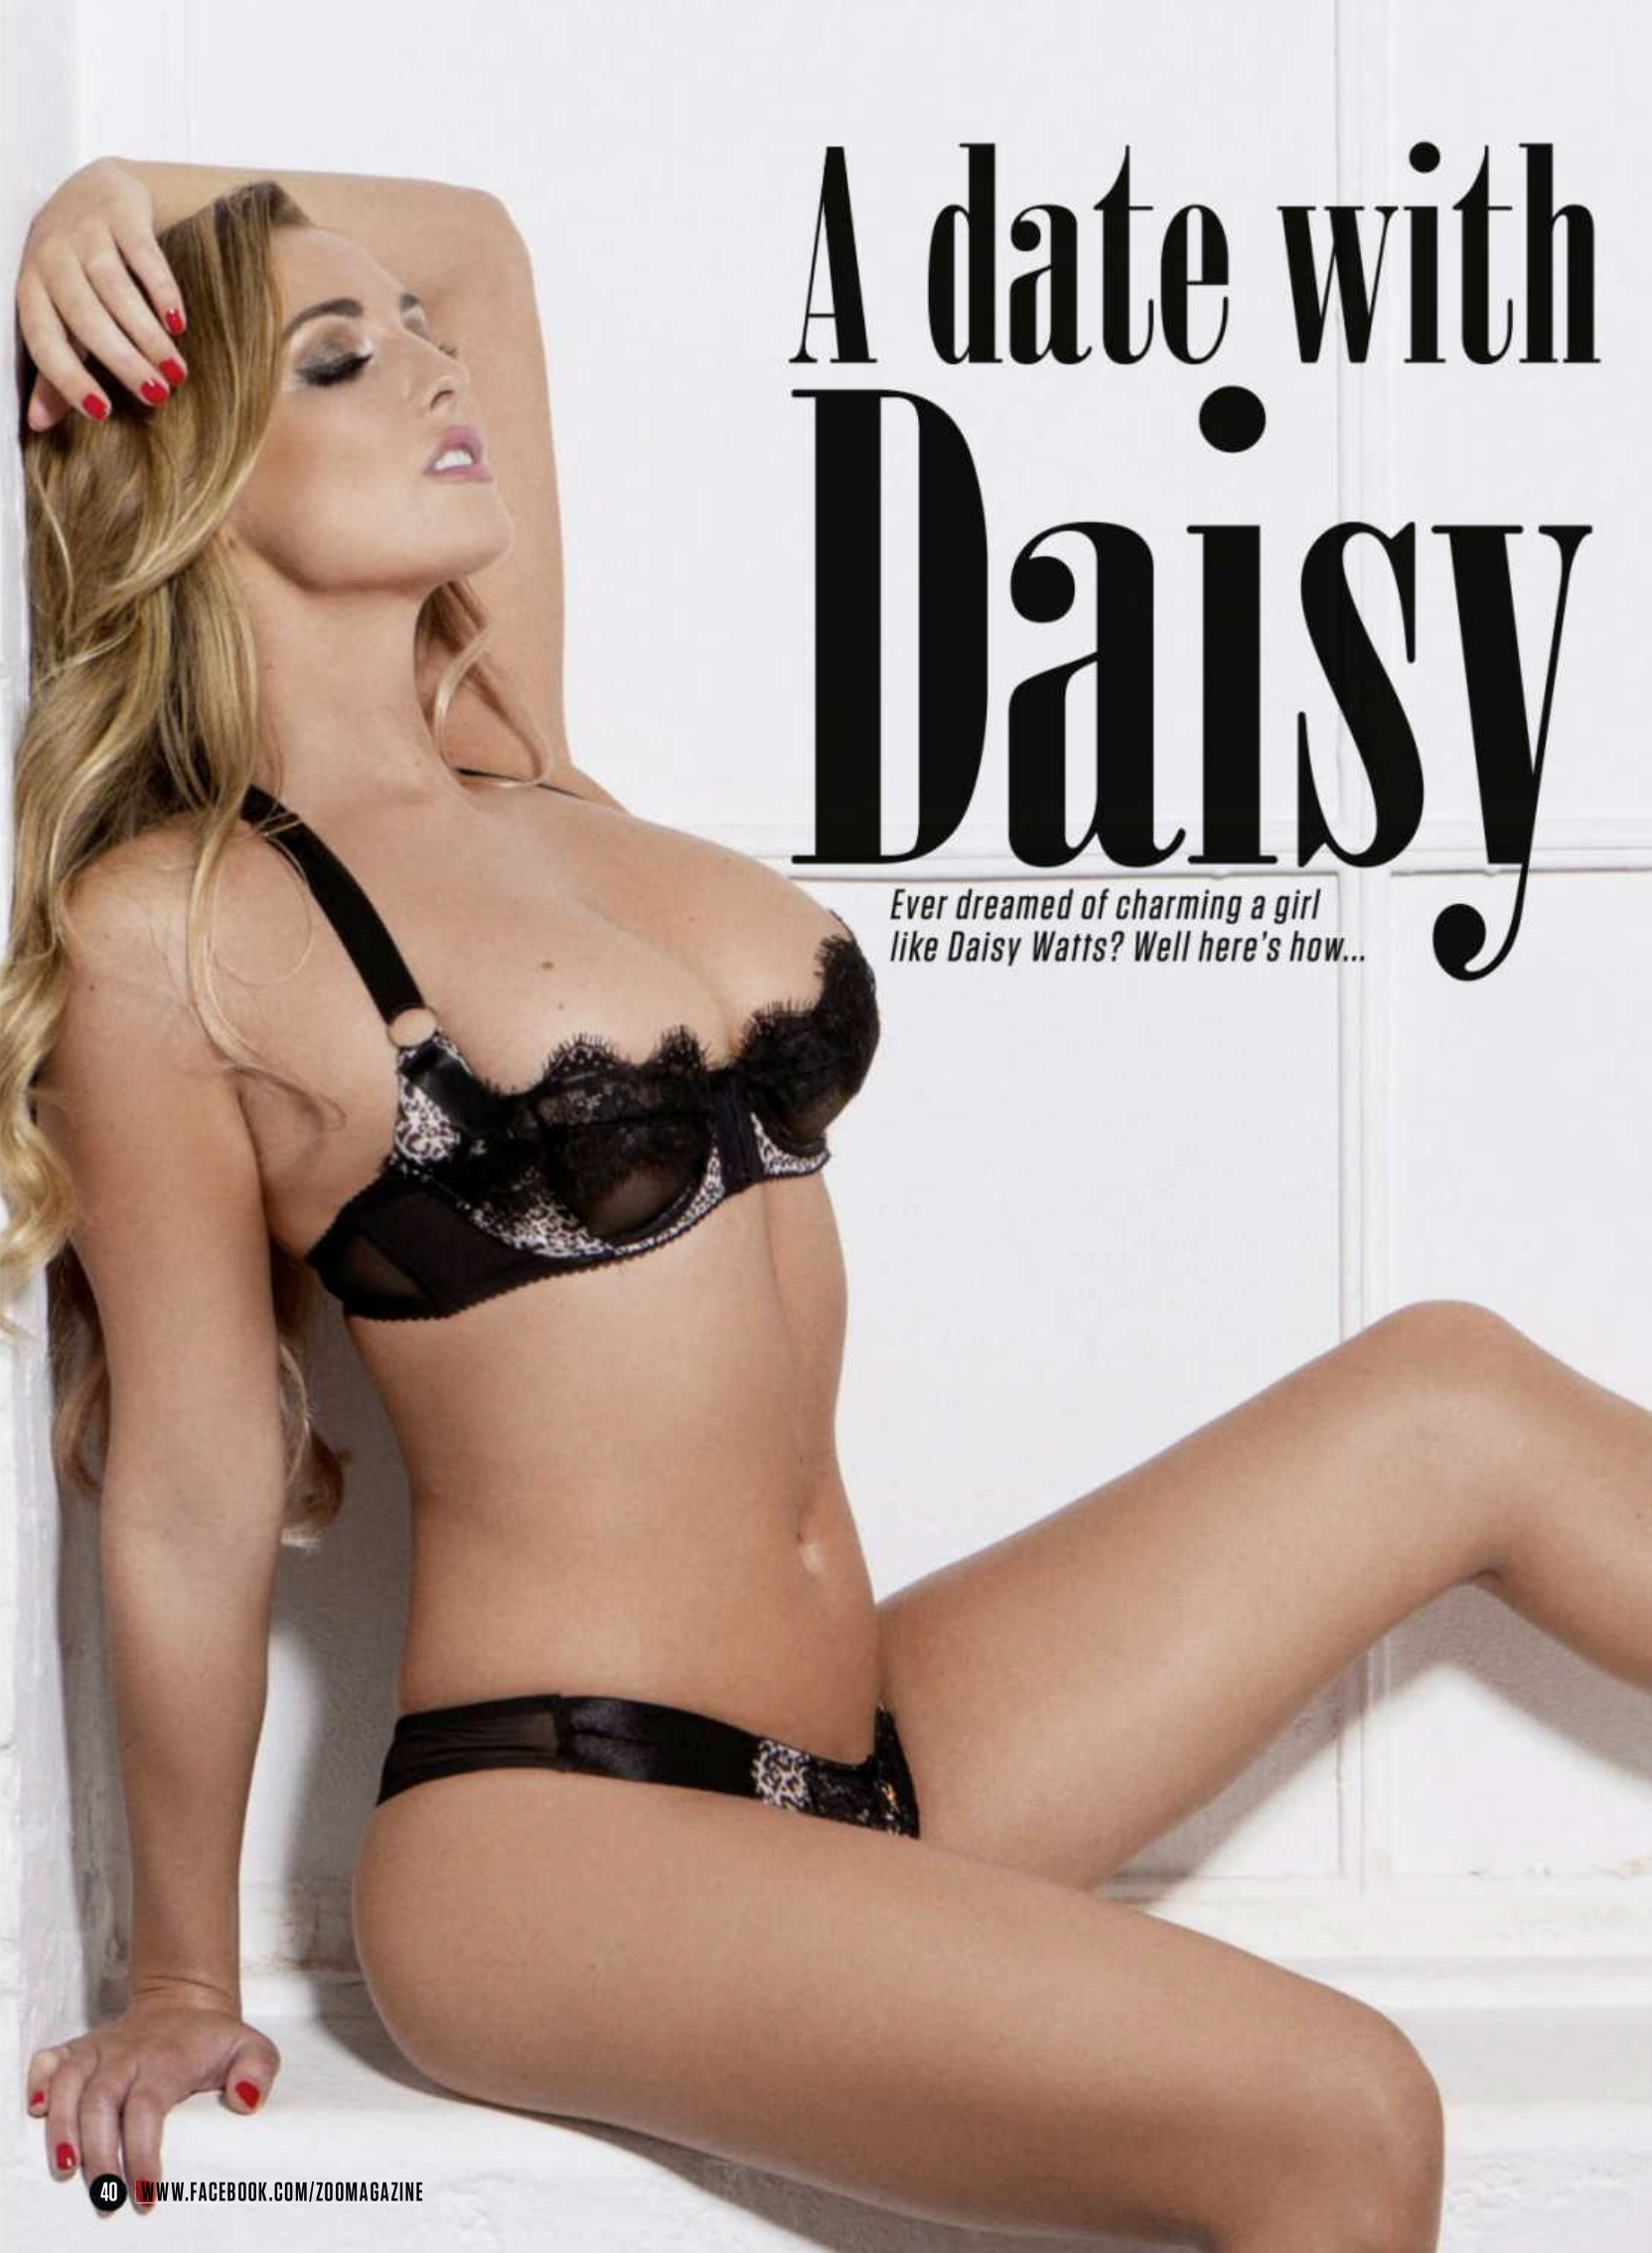

"Yakuza members all take part in a training process. They learn two things – how to kill, and how not to get killed – and are trained in the arts of knife combat, close combat, firearms and bodyguard duties. They role-play protecting a boss in the open, how to attack or how to judge a scene. This, combined with meditation and fitness training, makes an interesting package for young people attracted to the Yakuza life."

KEEPERS OF JAPANESE VALUES!

"Punishment involves removing a piece of your own finger!"

A woman with long blonde hair, wearing black lace lingerie, is posing against a white wall. She is leaning back with her head tilted up and her right hand resting on her head. Her left hand is resting on the wall. The background is a plain white wall.

A date with Daisy

Ever dreamed of charming a girl like Daisy Watts? Well here's how...

All-new shoot!

She's one of ZOO's most loved covergirls and we're sure you've dreamed of a date with the delightful Daisy Watts but wondered how to secure one.

Don't worry: the London babe is peeling off her layers of red-hot lingerie and revealing all, from telling us which TV shows get her in the mood, to her renewed love for boobs and why she'd rather be completely naked...

HEY, DAISY. THIS IS AN INCREDIBLY SEXY SHOOT. WHAT'S YOUR IDEA OF SEXY?

Well, I wasn't mad about Fifty Shades Of Grey; it just wasn't sexy enough for me. Have you seen the TV show Banshee? It's basically a sex show! Lili Simmons is incredibly hot in it and is always sneaking out of her Amish town for a spot of naughtiness. If that doesn't get you in the mood, I don't know what will.

WHAT'S THE STEAMIEST DATE YOU'VE EVER BEEN ON?

I once got it on with a fella in a public sauna, and I've still got no idea how we didn't get caught. There were loads of people just outside in the main pool, so I guess we were actually hidden by the steam...

NAUGHTY. WHERE COULD WE TAKE YOU OUT?

I love doing something a little bit different and adventurous, instead of a boring date. I went zip-lining once and that was one of my favourite dates because it was just really spontaneous. ➔

INTERVIEW: Joe Barnes. PHOTOGRAPHY: Nigel Turnpike
STYLING: Lisa Nicolae. HAIR & MAKE-UP: Johanna Dalenro

"Over the summer, my boobs got bigger!"

HOW IMPORTANT IS SPONTANEITY?

I get bored very easily, so if you want to keep me, you've got to be on your toes to keep me interested!

IS THERE ANYTHING WE SHOULDN'T DO?

I went on a disastrous date once at a bar. He bought himself a drink so I said, "Should I have a drink, too?" He replied, "You can have a sip of mine." I nearly died. He may have got a second date if he'd just offered me a glass of wine!

WHAT ELSE MAKES YOU FEEL SEXY?

Tiny underwear. I brought a few bikinis back from Ibiza, which are basically just little thongs. They're brilliant for that actually. Failing that, nakedness and sunshine.

SO, IT'S 100 PER CENT TRUE YOU DON'T LIKE WEARING CLOTHES...

Never ever! Even at parties when I really should be wearing a top, I won't have one on. I'd probably never wear knickers either if I could actually get away with it...

WHAT PART OF YOUR ANATOMY DO YOU LOVE TO SHOW OFF?

ZOO readers will know that I've always been a bum girl but recently – because I've not been able to get down the gym as much – my boobs have grown, which is definitely swaying me towards the boob side.

WHAT TIPS CAN YOU SHARE ABOUT WEARING LINGERIE IN THE BEDROOM?

Don't tell your fella you're putting on sexy lingerie. I like to be waiting for a guy when he comes out of the shower. The surprise has a very positive effect! ➔

"I'd never wear underwear if I could get away with it..."

IF WE WERE TO WHISK YOU AWAY FOR A ROMANTIC GETAWAY, WHERE WOULD WE GO?

I would say Ibiza, but parties there are more crazy than romantic. You can never really go wrong with Center Parcs. There's a lot of fun to be had if you've got a Jacuzzi and a couple of bottles of wine...

IS THERE ANY WAY WE COULD EVER TAME ZOO'S WILDEST MODEL?

Absolutely not! My bestie, Kelly Hall, tried it while we were out drinking this summer but failed miserably. She was sent home completely corrupted and a wild chick.

FAIR ENOUGH. ARE YOU WILD ENOUGH TO END UP ON LOVE ISLAND OR EX ON THE BEACH?

No way! They're hilarious, but have you ever known anyone stay together after those shows? They put you in the most difficult situations and to top it off, they get you really p*ssed so all you do is argue. I'd just end up killing someone!

THE BEST, BIGGEST AND FUNNIEST STORIES FROM THE WORLD OF FOOTBALL

DAVID JAMES TALKS TO ZOO!

"England are no longer a one-man team"

Former England goalkeeper David James tells ZOO why the current Three Lions could deliver where others have failed

HI, DAVID. HAVING WON 10 OUT OF 10 IN QUALIFYING, IS THIS ENGLAND TEAM THE REAL DEAL?

It's not the greatest barometer for measuring success in the Finals because the seeding system for qualifiers means England aren't going to be playing the top sides in Europe, so you'd expect us to win those games. However, if it was that easy we'd do it in qualifying for every tournament but we don't, so it's a good start.

NO OTHER TEAM

IN QUALIFYING FINISHED ON MORE POINTS. COULD ENGLAND HAVE DONE ANY MORE?

You have to win the game irrespective of the competition, and if the opposition aren't good then you win well. I've seen a lot of performances where England are the far superior side and are quite content with winning one-nil or two-nil when they could rout them five or six-nil.

YOU MUST BE HAPPY WITH THE TEAM CONCEDED ONLY THREE GOALS?

The defence has been solid. Joe

Hart is one of the best goalkeepers in the world right now, so it's no surprise the amount of clean sheets he racked up. It's good practice for knockout football because one goal is often enough to see you through at that stage and you don't want to be the one to concede it. They still need a real test though, so hopefully they'll get that in the upcoming friendlies. WITH WAYNE ROONEY BEING OFF THE BOIL AT CLUB LEVEL, ARE THESE FRIENDLIES ABOUT FINDING A NEW TALISMAN?

One of the reasons England have suffered at major tournaments is the onus put on one player to be the talisman. At club level one player can make a difference, but if you want to win World Cups or European Championships, then one player's not going to be the

ROY HODGSON: "GOT A PLAN"

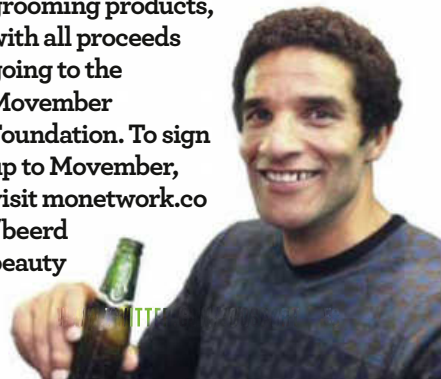

I don't remember people referring to the squad as that at the time and if they did I must be reading the wrong media.

Roy Hodgson has come in with a long-term plan and you can see it bearing fruit with players graduating from the under-21 side into the senior team. But label or no label, it doesn't change the expectation once you pull on an England shirt. WILL WE EVER DO WELL IN A MAJOR TOURNAMENT WITHOUT HAVING A WINTER BREAK? The question is whether we want to have the best league in the world or the best national team, because I don't think you can have both. Attraction will dictate the best league has collectively the best players in the world and they won't necessarily be from the home nation. The way I look at it is, do you want nine months of entertainment every year or four weeks of entertainment once every two years?

catalyst for success. The good thing about this group of players is there is more of an even playing field when it comes to the spotlight. The likes of Ross Barkley and Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain can step up and be that talisman on any given day. YOU WERE PART OF THE "GOLDEN GENERATION" OF ENGLAND PLAYERS. HOW RELIEVED ARE YOU FOR THE CURRENT CROP THAT THEY DON'T HAVE ANY LABELS?

I think we were branded that after we had gone.

ZOO's PREM DOSSIER

Who's keeping the ball, who's chasing after it – and who are the fast starters? ZOO reveals the stats that tell the story of the top-flight season so far...

Spurs' run of 10 games without defeat is 2015-16's longest unbeaten streak in the Premier League

WHICH TEAM IS HARDEST WORKING?

(Distance covered)

| | |
|---------------------|-----------|
| 1 Bournemouth | 1,304.8km |
| 2 Spurs | 1,281.6km |
| 3 West Brom | 1,252km |
| 4 Manchester United | 1,234km |
| 5 West Ham | 1,227.4km |

With three of the sides doing the most running occupying fourth to sixth places in the league, it shows old fashioned hard work is still a valuable commodity, despite all the continental flair.

WHO HAS THE BEST ENGINE?

(Total distance covered)

| | |
|-------------------------------|----------|
| 1 James Milner (Liverpool) | 134.68km |
| 2 Andrew Surman (Bournemouth) | 133.36km |
| 3 Matt Ritchie (Bournemouth) | 129.91km |
| 4 Gareth Barry (Everton) | 127.47km |
| 5 Etienne Capoue (Watford) | 123.79km |

It's no surprise the hardest-working man in the league is James Milner. What might be more of a shock is that, even in his twilight years, Gareth Barry still has the legs.

WHO IS THE BUSIEST KEEPER?

(Shots saved)

| | |
|---|----|
| 1 Jack Butland (Stoke) | 46 |
| 2 Costel Pantilimon (Sunderland) | 44 |
| 3 Tim Howard (Everton) | 42 |
| 4 Petr Cech (Arsenal) | 40 |
| 5 Boaz Myhill (West Brom) | 36 |
| = Brad Guzan (Aston Villa) | 36 |

It's a tall order pushing Joe Hart for a starting berth in an England shirt, but Jack Butland looks like he's up to it – and his defence are helping as well. Just not in the way he would have liked...

West Ham have been shown the most red cards this season (four)

WHO IS THE DIRTIEST PLAYER IN THE LEAGUE?

(Fouls committed)

|---|----|
| 1 Lucas Leiva (Liverpool) | 28 |
| = Etienne Capoue (Watford) | 28 |
| 3 James Milner (Liverpool) | 24 |
| 4 Morgan Schneiderlin (Man United) | 23 |
| = Idrissa Gueye (Aston Villa) | 23 |

Given a new lease of life under Jurgen Klopp, Lucas Leiva is putting himself about on the pitch in frantic fashion. But more tellingly, with eight of the 11 players winning or giving away the most tackles being midfielders, it's clear where the battle lines are drawn.

WHO IS THE BEST TACKLER?

(Tackles won)

| | |
|--|----|
| 1 Lucas Leiva (Liverpool) | 54 |
| 2 Fernandinho (Manchester City) | 45 |
| 3 N'Golo Kanté (Leicester) | 44 |
| = Erik Pieters (Stoke) | 44 |
| 5 Billy Jones (Sunderland) | 40 |
| = Simon Francis (Bournemouth) | 40 |

Jamie Vardy has scored more Premier League goals than four sides – Watford, West Brom, Stoke and Aston Villa

WHO IS THE LEAGUE'S USAIN BOLT?

(Top speed reached)

| | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1 Jamie Vardy (Leicester) | 35.44km/h |
| 2 Jeffrey Schlupp (Leicester) | 35.26km/h |
| 3 Divock Origi (Liverpool) | 35.5km/h |
| 4 Kyle Walker (Spurs) | 35.09km/h |
| 5 Billy Jones (Sunderland) | 35.07km/h |

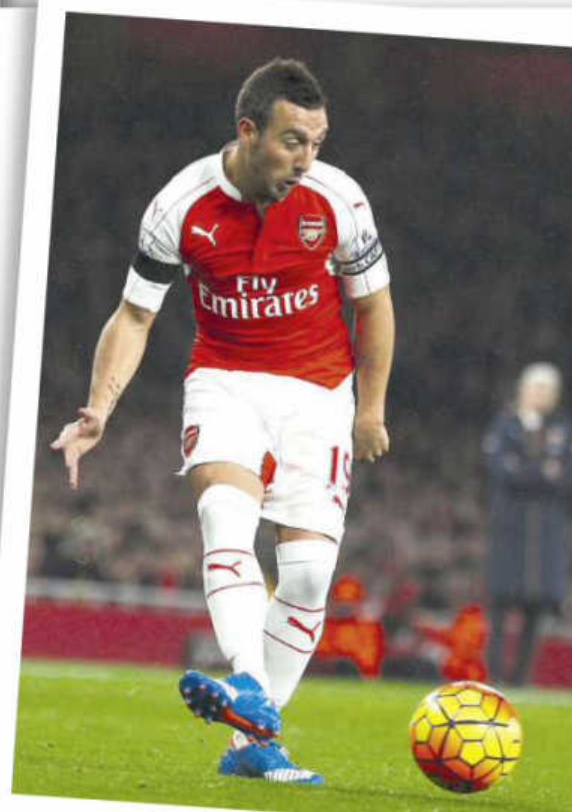

Jamie Vardy has hit the ground running this season – literally – and his ability to leave defenders trailing in his wake is key to him leading the Golden Boot race.

WHO IS THE PASS MASTER?

|--|-----|
| 1 Santi Cazorla (Arsenal) | 823 |
| 2 Fernandinho (Manchester City) | 676 |
| 3 Cesc Fabregas (Chelsea) | 643 |
| 4 Andrew Surman (Bournemouth) | 622 |
| 5 Jonjo Shelvey (Swansea) | 511 |

Andrew Surman's entry in the top five proves Bournemouth are far from abandoning the expansive style of football that got them promoted in the first place.

After Chelsea's rocky start to the season, Jose Mourinho has already equalled the most losses he's ever recorded in a Premier League campaign (six)

WHO ARE THE KINGS OF KEEP-BALL?

(Passes completed)

|---------------------|-------|
| 1 Manchester City | 5,296 |
| 2 Manchester United | 5,267 |
| 3 Arsenal | 5,228 |
| 4 Chelsea | 4,513 |
| 5 Liverpool | 4,398 |

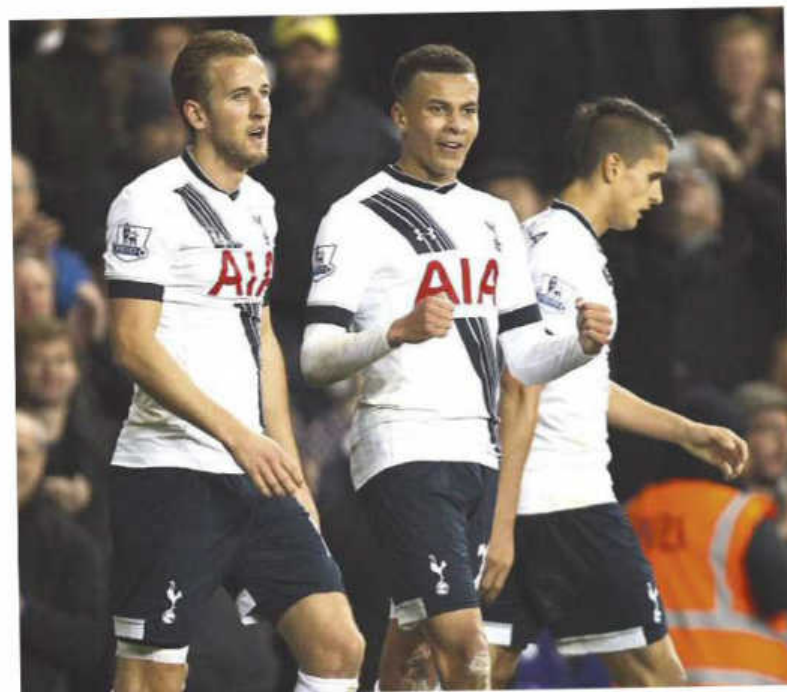

It makes sense that teams which keep the ball well reside at the summit of the league – except when it's at the feet of Chelsea players, who could probably start by looking at what they are doing with all that possession...

If Premier League games ended at half-time this season, Watford would be top with 19 points

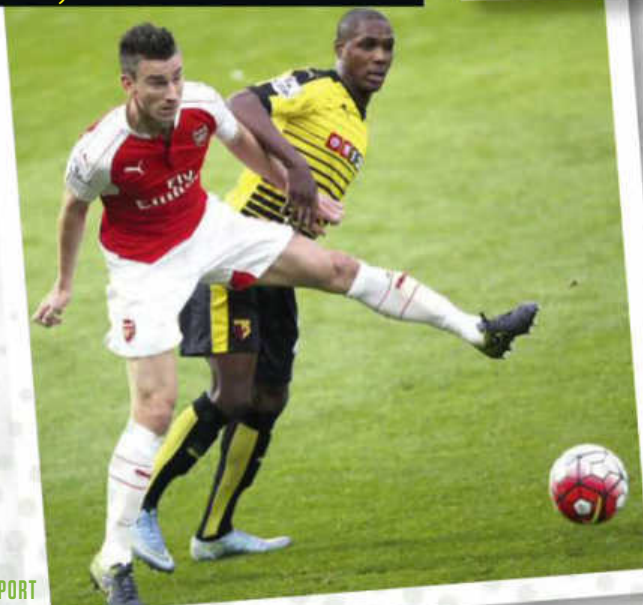

WHO HAS CUT OUT THE MOST BALLS?

(Most interceptions)

| | |
|---------------------------------|----|
| 1 Laurent Koscielny (Arsenal) | 39 |
| = N'Golo Kanté (Leicester) | 39 |
| 3 Yohan Cabaye (Crystal Palace) | 35 |
| = César Azpilicueta (Chelsea) | 35 |
| 5 Kyle Walker (Spurs) | 34 |
| = Etienne Capoue (Watford) | 34 |

Petr Cech might be protecting the net for Arsenal, but one man is making sure the opposition don't even get that far. N'Golo Kanté could do with some help at Leicester however as, despite his efforts, the Foxes have the leakiest defence in the top half of the table.

WHO HAS THE YOUNGEST TEAM?

(Average age of starting XI)

|---------------------|------------|
| 1 Spurs | 23.9 years |
| 2 Liverpool | 24.1 years |
| 3 Newcastle | 24.9 years |
| 4 Manchester United | 25.3 years |
| 5 West Ham United | 25.5 years |

Having turned Southampton into the academy of England, it looks like Mauricio Pochettino is doing similar at White Hart Lane. It's good ammo for the next time an Arsenal fan goes on about the Gunners' "youth policy"...

WHO BROUGHT THEIR SHOOTING BOOTS?

(Shots on target)

| | |
|-----------------------------------|----|
| 1 Jamie Vardy (Leicester) | 20 |
| 2 Harry Kane (Spurs) | 18 |
| 3 Riyad Mahrez (Leicester) | 15 |
| = Alexis Sanchez (Arsenal) | 15 |
| = Olivier Giroud (Arsenal) | 15 |
| = Romelu Lukaku (Everton) | 15 |

Only West Brom have hit fewer shots (109) than Manchester United (110) in the league this season

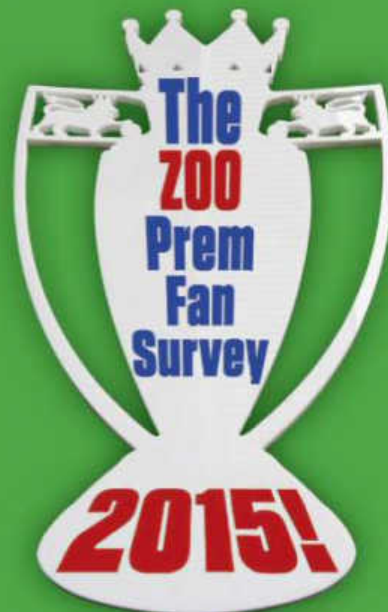

WHO'S FORGOTTEN THEIR SHOOTING BOOTS?

(Shots off target)

| | |
|--|----|
| 1 Graziano Pelle (Southampton) | 25 |
| 2 Odion Ighalo (Watford) | 15 |
| = Rudy Gestede (Aston Villa) | 15 |
| 4 Jamie Vardy (Leicester) | 14 |
| = Philippe Coutinho (Liverpool) | 14 |

Harry Kane's sighting is still on-track, and Jamie Vardy is the most trigger-happy striker in the league. But if Graziano Pelle had his shooting boots on, he could easily catch the Foxes man.

Leicester are the only Premier League team to score in all of their league games this season

Ronda Rousey

"I'm UFC's highest-paid star for a reason!"

The most dominant fighter in UFC gets ready to make history again

HI, RONDA. HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE MAKING HISTORY IN MELBOURNE WITH THE FIRST ALL-FEMALE UFC MAIN AND CO-MAIN EVENT?

It's great, and it's going to be an amazing show, but let's be clear: people aren't turning up because they love women. They're turning up because they love fighters.

IS THAT WHY MICHAEL BUFFER WILL BE ANNOUNCING YOU AS JUST THE "BANTAMWEIGHT CHAMPION" ON THE NIGHT AND NOT THE "WOMEN'S BANTAMWEIGHT CHAMPION"?

I am the bantamweight champion. The fact we're women is obvious, so it doesn't have to be mentioned. I'm not the highest-paid fighter in UFC because Dana White wanted to do something nice for the ladies. It's because I bring in the highest numbers.

IS HOLLY HOLM YOUR TOUGHEST OPPONENT YET?

Holly is an intriguing challenger, and I've been watching her since the day she started MMA. If there's a 19-time boxing champion coming into my sport then I'll have my eye on her. She's been really impressive in how she's adapted to MMA. She's the type of fighter I want to test myself against and prove why I am the best.

ARE YOU WORRIED ABOUT HER KNOCKOUT POWER?

Why should I be? Boxing striking is different to MMA striking. She's not an MMA champion, and I'm the best in the world at MMA striking. It's what makes me confident that I will beat her on fight night.

YOUR LAST FIGHT LASTED JUST 34 SECONDS. CAN WE EXPECT TO GET AT LEAST A MINUTE THIS TIME?

Ha ha. I can't come in really aggressive against Holly because she's a counter-puncher and she has a reach advantage over me. Other girls that I've fought don't have the kind of footwork and movement Holly has, so I knew I could jump on them straight away. With Holly, I've got to take my time.

Ronda Rousey vs Holly Holm

3am, BT Sport 2

Rousey & Holm face off!

HOW REFRESHING IS IT
TO BE UP AGAINST AN OPPONENT WHO ISN'T TRASH TALKING YOU?

It's tiring fighting a b*tch, and Holly is an awesome chick. She's an amazing competitor. When I come into the fight I'm for real: I'm going to beat you and that's the way it is. But as an athlete, I couldn't have more respect for her.

YOU'VE COME OUT IN SUPPORT OF NICK DIAZ
AFTER HIS FIVE-YEAR BAN
FOR FAILING A DRUGS TEST
DUE TO MARIJUANA...

It's so unfair. One person can test positive for steroids that could actually hurt a person and get less than someone who smokes a plant that makes them happy. He got suspended for five years! I think they should free Nick Diaz. I'm against them testing for weed at all. It's not a performance-enhancing drug and has nothing to do with athletic competition.

Holly Holm

"Jon Jones is helping me to beat Ronda!"

The ex-boxing great on the task at hand...

HI, HOLLY. YOU'LL BE MAKING HISTORY ON SATURDAY NIGHT AS
PART OF THIS BILL. HOW MUCH OF THAT IS DOWN TO RONDA ROUSEY?

She definitely helped pave the way and make strides for women's MMA. She earned her spot and has helped open doors for everybody else. It's just an honour to be a part of it.

YOU WERE A BOXING WORLD CHAMPION IN THREE DIFFERENT
WEIGHT CLASSES AND ARE UNDEFEATED IN
NINE UFC FIGHTS. IS IT
WEIRD BEING THE UNDERDOG?

I've been the underdog more than once, and it's fine with me. When I took the rematch with Anne Sophie Mathis after she knocked me out cold, everyone thought I was crazy, but I avenged my loss. The bigger the challenge, the better the victory.

SO HOW WILL YOU BE

VICTORIOUS ON SATURDAY NIGHT?

A lot of girls put Ronda so high up on a pedestal, they forget they're in the Octagon for a reason. I have the capability and the ability to win, and I believe in myself. Every fight is different and every style is different. Just because Ronda hasn't been beaten yet, that doesn't mean it can't happen.

YOU TRAIN IN THE SAME
GYM AS JON JONES. HAS
HE BEEN HELPING YOU PREPARE?

Yes, we shadow box a little bit, and throw kicks and punches at each other. I love to hear his input because he's obviously been able to take what our coaches teach and put it together perfectly. He's been very instrumental in this fight
